Theme 2024: Sustainable Development: Bridging Perspectives on the Food-Energy-Water-Material Nexus

About symposium

This insightful and collaborative symposium delves into the intricate interplay of the food, water, materials, and energy sectors. The challenges and opportunities presented by this complex nexus in alignment with the country's journey to net zero emission will be discussed by bringing together experts, practitioners, policymakers, students, entrepreneurs, and community representatives. We seek to bridge the gap between top-down decision-making processes and bottom-up community-driven initiatives.
